At-Large provides a way for the worldwide individual Internet user community to engage in all the issues that are a part of ICANN’s work.

Such as:
- IDNs
- New gTLDs
- Whois
- JPA
Tier Structure of At-Large

- At-Large Structures (ALSes)
  - Internet users’ groups that meet the minimum requirements and are certified by ICANN

- Regional At-Large Organizations (RALOs)
  - The ALSes located in each of the five geographic regions of the world have federated into RALOs, which provides a forum for them to work together on issues that affect their region.

- At-Large Advisory Committee (ALAC)
  - Each RALO selects representatives to the ALAC, which is a statutory body of ICANN that grants it official standing to advise the larger ICANN community, including the Board of Directors of ICANN, based upon the views of the individual Internet user community worldwide. It also works to bring more Internet user groups into the decision-making processes of ICANN.

CCTLD Community has been emphasizing that serving the local Internet community is an important feature that makes the ccTLDs different from the gTLDs.

The IANA Procedure for Delegation or Redelegation of ccTLDs also clearly requires that relevant ccTLD delegation or redelegation request show how it will serve the local interest in the country.

The ccTLDs need the support of the local user community for the fast-track IDNs’ application and implementation. The user community notes from the Implementation Plan that the Support from the relevant script community for the IDN table is required for evaluation among the other documentation of endorsement.

It is in the mutual interest of both the IDN ccTLD registry community and the local IDN user community to keep a very close, cooperative and supportive relationship.

User community and APRALO are willing to work closely with the APTLD and all the ccTLDs in AP for development of the DNS and protection of the users’ interests.
